Our Hillsboro correspondent says the Sunday schools at that place are in a flourishing condition, and that the singing classes are exhibiting commendable proficiency.

The farmers of Benton are very busy plowing and sowing grain. In King's valley and other portions of the county they have been able to plow most of the winter.

In the County Court of Washington county last Saturday, William Stewart was granted license to sell liquor in Forest Grove precinct. The application was warmly contested, and won only by one or two votes.

A Eugene school teacher makes his appearance in the school room with a pipe in his mouth, puffing like a Mississippi river steamer, and occasionally suspends operations to procure a "chaw" from some one of his pupils.

At a meeting of the Washington County Agricultural Society, held last week, Hamilton Boyd was elected superintendent of class 2, running horses; S. Hughes, superintendent of graded horses, and A. Lowelling, superintendent of class No. 3.

The enterprising citizens of Lafayette are not to be outdone by more favored rivals. It has been determined to have a first class slashing in that vicinity. All of the underbrush is to be removed so that skirmishing for Modocs in that locality will be rather hazardous.

A correspondent writing from Shedd's Station says: News items hereabouts are rather scarce. Things go along in a humdrum sort of way, one day much like another. There is a prospect of some improvement in our town—for instance the reception of a lot of lumber.

The house belonging to Mr. Malone, at St. Joe, which was crushed by the falling of a tree, a few days since, is being rebuilt. A dog, which was in the house at the time it was thrown down was impaled between the sleepers, and through the exertions of persons who cleared away the debris was rescued.

The Board of Education for the State of Oregon, under the law approved October 29, 1872, effected a preliminary organization in Salem on Friday, Mr. Simpson having qualified as Superintendent of Public Instruction. The Board consists of the Governor, the Secretary and the Superintendent.

Two hoodlums in Lane county blackened their faces with charcoal, and ate apples in spelling school. The teacher had them arrested, but the law could not reach them. We know some teachers that would have reached them and given them such a thrashing as would have made them black and blue elsewhere than their faces.

From the Statesman we learn that the Peace Commissioners are to act by and with the advice of General Canby, and that the General and Mr. Samuel Case were to leave Salem last Saturday for Ashland, where they would be joined by Mr. Applegate, and that Mr. Meacham would probably join the commission at Linkville.

The following officers for the American Bible Society of Lane county, were elected for the ensuing year on the 3d inst. Thos Bolshaw, President; W. H. Odell, Vice President, S. B. Eakin, Secretary, John Killingsworth, Treasurer and Bible Depositary, Dr. Gill, John Winter and Dr. H. Ellsworth, Executive Committee.

The first case under the new game law of the State was tried at Eugene last Monday. Wm. Humphrey was brought before Justice Brown charged with offending against the peace and dignity of the State of Oregon in offering venison for sale. Six able bodied jurors decided that the accused was not guilty of an offense, and he was discharged

Mr August Knight, of Corvallis, has in his garden a very pretty, but rather singular looking shrub, about six or seven feet high, called the China quince. The limbs are crooked and rough, resembling the ordinary quince somewhat. It is now completely covered with rich red buds and full blown flowers. It bears a sort of fruit which is entirely worthless, so far as "American man" knows. It comes under the head of "more ornamental than useful."

At a meeting of the farmers of Benton county, recently held at Corvallis for the purpose of forming a Club for the protection of their interests, Dr Bayley communicated a proposition from the Willamette Navigation Company to carry all the grain raised by members of this Club to Portland for seven and one half cents per bushel, if insured the whole trade for five years. This offer was thankfully received, and will be duly considered by the Club at an early day.

The Statesman, speaking of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, says: "Rev. Dr. Dawne has completed all the necessary arrangements to push forward to a speedy completion a Church edifice for the use of this denomination in our city. It will be located on Liberty street, near the center of the city, north and south. Dr. Dawne commenced operations here in August last. He had no membership, no Church property, but his energy is being crowned with success. Mr. J. D. Wooden is the contractor."

The town of Forest Grove is improving very rapidly. Quite a number of new residences have been erected, and several others are soon to become renowned. The Trustees of the University expect to be able before a great length of time to proceed with the new College building. The institution is more prosperous than ever before. Business in the village is comparatively active. The place has grown more within the last year, we are informed, than in any previous year since its foundation.

At the last regular meeting of Harmon Lodge No. 161, I. O. G. T., Dallas, the following officers were installed for the term beginning February 1, 1873: C. O. Grimes, W. C. T.; Miss Ella Cowne, W. R. H. S.; Miss M. Gilliam, W. L. H. S.; Miss E. Young, W. V. T.; Arthur Coffin, W. S.; Miss S. Worsley, W. A. S.; H. S. Comfort, W. F. S.; Miss O. Wallace, W. T.; C. Patterson, W. M.; Miss J. Gilliam, W. D. M.; O. L. Doane, W. O. G.; Miss C. Grimes, W. I. G.; Rev. F. Doane, W. C.; O. D. Doane, P. W. C. T.

The Benton County Farmers' Club was organized last Saturday at Corvallis. E. Hurtless was chosen Chairman, and A. G. Mulkey, Secretary. Speeches were made, a Committee on Constitution and By Laws appointed, and the following question adopted for discussion at the next meeting: "What is the best method for farmers to adopt in storing and shipping their grain?" Notwithstanding the unfavorable weather the meeting was well attended, showing that the farmers are waking up to the importance of "doing something," as one of the speakers expressed it.

The Corvallis Gazette says: "Mr. James Foster, of Benton county, has just returned from the Summer and Goose Lake country via San Francisco. He left the former place about the middle of January, and brings favorable reports. There are quite a number of Benton county families out in those regions, and all appear to be contented and hopeful. The winter has been mild and stock was doing well. He killed a yearling steer off the range (picking for a small one), which weighed 650 pounds—out of which he got 100 pounds of tallow. Mr. Foster has a large amount of stock out there—and thinks that country will adapted to stock raising."

The Corvallis Gazette, in an article on "Farmers' Clubs," says: When the farmer can realize a fair price for his produce, money is plenty and times are good. If wheat had been seventy-five or eighty cents at last harvest, (as it would have been but for a combination among speculators), and other products in proportion, there would be no cry of "hard times" now in Oregon. Speculators combined against the farmers of Oregon and assumed the entire control of the wheat market, and by means of the "tonnage scare" induced many to sell at 50 to 55 cents per bushel, [illegible] holders (the farmers) were in debt and had to raise money at a certain time, or be subject to great inconvenience. It is to guard against a like contingency in the future that farmers, all over the State, are now forming county organizations.

A correspondent of the Eugene Guard says: "The Board of Commissioners for the sale of school land and the management of the common school fund, consisting of the Governor, Secretary of State and State Treasurer, have sold about one-third of said University land, and the proceeds of said sales is now in the hands of said Board, loaned out on good security, or in the hands of the Treasurers of the different counties. The money is loaned in the same manner that the irreducible school fund is, on real estate security. The report of the Treasurer for 1872 shows that there is now on hand at the office the sum of $22,115 45 in gold coin, and $3,522 in currency. And besides the amount reported by the Treasurer there is quite a large amount in the hands of the Treasurers of the different counties not reported, which belongs to that fund. There is now in the hands of the Treasurer of Lane county about the sum of $4,000 coin—University fund. And hence the total amount of funds actually on hand belonging to the University fund is between $45,000 and $50,000. If the lands belonging to the fund are judiciously disposed of the fund will amount to about $150,000 coin. The interest on that amount would give about $15,000 every year to defray on and defray the expenses of the University."

A Chase after Wealth.

The Salem Statesman of the 7th says:

"It seems that "Jarndyce and Jarndyce" was not the only suit in chancery, famous for being forever on the docket. An English chancery court has lately decided a case that had been pending for over thirty years, among the English and American branches of the Chase family. We find the following paragraph concerning it in the Albany, N. Y., Times: "The English Court of Chancery has at last made a decision in the Townly estate, which has been before the Court for thirty years. It appears that the estate was confiscated because three of the owners came over to this country and settled here. The estate is valued at the large sum of $250,000,000, and 100 heirs in the United States are interested in it: among them Mr. Chase, of 20 Green street, in this city."

In connection with this case Dr. E. Y. Chase of this city gives us some interesting information. He is himself one of the Chase family, of the American branch, and he says that nearly all the Chases in the United States are either in the direct line of descent, or have at one time or another made attempts to prove their lineage back to the original Lord Townly who died about two hundred and ten years ago, leaving his widow sole heir of an estate which was even then a large one. The widow subsequently married a man named Chase, and thus sprung up the genealogical tree of the Chases. The first venture of the estate was, after the mother, in five sons, three of whom found it convenient to emigrate to America for some political offense. Their estates were confiscated to the crown; but, after several generations, restored to the family in possession.

Then began the scramble between the American and English descendants for shares in the plum which had meantime grown to be an immense thing. Something over thirty years ago several hundred Chases or their representatives met in convention and deputed a committee of one hundred of the family to go for it. They raised a large sum of money, and employed Martin Van Buren to go to England and commence proceedings. He was employed in the case over two years, when it fell into the hands of other great lawyers in England, who have continued, from week to week, month to month, and year to year, to file motions, befog the case, tangle it more and more inextricably, and to pile up fat bills of retainers and costs. The doctor thinks that there are probably about 12,000 Chases in the United States who might be willing to trace their genealogy back to the original owner. He has no doubt of his ability to do it.

A very pleasant story is told here (one of the Paris correspondents writes) about the Bey of Tunis. He wished to have some rifled cannons, and naturally addressed himself to a German, who hit upon some old ordnance, which had long been standing on the ramparts of Frankfort. The municipality were delighted to find a purchaser, and sold the pieces at a low price. The guns, of course, were not rifled, but this did not hinder the contractor from buying them. He sent for a locksmith and ordered him to rifle them, and then to forward them to Tunis. Three months afterwards the guns arrived, but what was the astonishment of the Bey and his artillery committee to find them rifled outside.

DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

EASTERN DATES TO FEBRUARY 7.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—In the Senate the bill providing for International Copyright, was reported on adversely

The Committee on Mines reported, with an amendment, a bill to aid in the construction of Sutro tunnel from the proceeds of the sales of mineral lands.

Fenton presented a memorial from the business men of New York against a repeal of the Bankrupt Law.

Buckingham, of Connecticut, presented a memorial asking a repeal of the tax on banks

On motion of Casserly, the Secretary of the Treasury was directed to transmit a statement of the net earnings of the Union Pacific and Central Pacific Railroads, showing in detail the running expenses and amounts received for freight transportation.

The Alabama Claims bill was taken up.

The House proceeded to consider bills of a private nature reported from the Committee on Naval Affairs.

Platte, of Virginia, reported a bill to restore certain officers to their original position on the Navy Register. Passed.

Coghlan, of California, reported a bill authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to settle the claim of Walter Wheeler Hubbell for his invention of a patent for navy and rifle cannon fuse and explosive shells.

Pending its consideration the morning hour expired, and the House went into Committee of the Whole on the Military Academy Appropriation bill.

Butler on Salaries.

The bill reported to-day by Butler, from the Committee on Judiciary, to adjust the salaries in the Executive, Judicial and Legislative Departments, provides that after March, 1873, the salaries be fixed as follows: President of the United States, $50,000; Vice-President, $10,000; Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, $10,000; Cabinet officers, $10,000; Speaker of the House, $10,000; Members of Congress, $5,000. Mileage is abolished, but actual expenses are allowed.

Cabinet Jubilations.

There was a full attendance at the Cabinet meeting to-day. The great success of the new syndicate in placing $100,000,000 of the new five per cent. loan, thus enabling the Secretary of the Treasury to call in a corresponding amount of 1862's, was the subject of discussion. President Grant and Secretary Boutwell were heartily congratulated.

Ku-Klux Conspirators Pardoned.

The President to-day pardoned Eli Ross Stewart and Robert Hayes Mitchell, of South Carolina, convicted of Ku-Klux crimes and sentenced to imprisonment in the Albany penitentiary.

The Mormon Question.

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—The Journal's Washington special says, in relation to an announcement by a correspondent to-day, that United States troops are to be removed from the South and placed in reasonable contiguity to Utah; that this action is not intended as a menace to Mormondom. Troops will be sent to the Rio Grande and put out on the plains. The Seventh Cavalry was yesterday ordered to the Rio Grande to protect the border, thus obviating the necessity for the enlistment of a volunteer Texan regiment as suggested by the Rio Grande Commissioners. The Senate and House have bills relative to Utah under consideration, and it seems quite probable that there will be definite legislation this session. Cloggett is the author of a new bill introduced by Frelinghuysen, and is intended as a substitute for Logan's bill.

EASTERN STATES.

The Plea of an Abortionist.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—In general Sessions to-day, Jacob Rosenzwig, for whom a trial has been ordered, was arraigned on a charge of manslaughter in committing an abortion on Alice Bowlesby. A special plea was interposed, that, having been tried and convicted on a charge of felony, he could not again be tried for the same offense. The Recorder said he would hear the arguments and render a decision on Thursday next. The prisoner was remanded.

A Juvenile Murderer.

John C. Shafter, aged thirteen years and William Baker aged thirteen years, and several other boys were playing at 522 Sixth Avenue this evening, when Baker began to tease Shafter. The latter told him to stop. Baker continued, saying: "Look out! I'll shoot you." Shafter replied: "Don't shoot!" Scarcely had he uttered the words, when Baker pulled the trigger twice. The cap failed, but on a third trial the pistol exploded, and a bullet entered Shafter's right temple. He fell to the floor, a corpse. Baker, terrified at his act, ran from the house, but was shortly arrested.

Homicide.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Another brutal wife murder was committed last night. Charles Story, an Englishman living at 649 East Thirteenth street, recently married his family and went west. Thursday he returned and brought two single-barreled pistols and loaded them. Last night he went to the room in which his wife and children were, locked the door, and without a word, fired both pistols at his wife. One ball passed through the lungs and another through the neck of the woman. She was taken to the hospital. The murderer was arrested while attempting to escape.

Jamaica Happy.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—We have Kingston dates to January 21st. Sir John Grant arrived at St. Thomas from England to assume the Governorship of Jamaica. The intelligence of his arrival caused much joy among the people, who have addresses from every parish awaiting his arrival. A large memorial from the colonists has gone to England praying Lord Kimberly to extend Sir John Grant's period of administration seven years more. The American steamship Wyoming arrived there on the 6th inst. from Hayti.

Bored plus Nero.

BOSTON, Feb. 7.—According to a confession of Evans, in 1858 he stole and killed a little girl, five years old, in Derry county, New Hampshire in 1859, he assaulted and cut the throat of a girl 14 years old in Augusta, Maine; in 1863, he outraged the person of of Isabella Joyce and killed her brother John, a boy 12 years old, in Somer's Woods, near Boston. He is charged with the commission of a similar crime in 1852 on the person of a woman who was found dead in the woods near Fitchburg, Massachusetts. At the same time in the same year he outraged and mutilated the person of, and then murdered Georgiana Lovering, a girl twelve years old, in Northwood, New Hampshire.

Pomeroy's Crime.

TOPEKA, Kansas, Feb 7.—The Pomeroy Investigating Committee met yesterday behind closed doors all day, taking the testimony of Senator Rook.

The Old, Old Story.

LOUISVILLE, Feb 7.—Mr. Cohlman, a well to do merchant tailor, jumped into the canal about 10 o'clock this forenoon and was drowned.

The New Hampshire Defaulter.

EXETER, N H., Feb 8.—An examination by the Bank Commissioner shows the loss to the Granite National Bank by the defalcation of Shute to be from $90,000 to $100,000, and that the assets are more than sufficient to pay liabilities. The stockholders are to take measures to continue the operations of the bank. Shute also embezzled from a Savings Bank. The total amount stolen will be $220,000. No clue as to the whereabouts of Shute has yet been obtained.

New York News.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Joe Pentland, veteran clown, is dead.

NEW YORK, Feb 8.—In the Stokes case to-day Judge Boardman denied the motion for a new trial and stay of proceedings. Stokes' counsel at once proceeded to apply for a stay of proceedings before Judge Davis.

NEW YORK, Feb 8.—An explosion at the fireworks manufactory of Sparks, on Dry street, this morning, seriously injured Sparks himself and a female employee.

Distinguished Dead.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 8.—Ex Governor Geary returned from New York last evening, apparently in good health. About 9 o'clock this morning, while breakfasting with his family, and in the act of helping his little son, his head suddenly fell back. Before his wife could get to his side, and before medical aid could be summoned, he was dead. The cause of his death is supposed to have been either heart disease or apoplexy.

HARTFORD, Conn., Feb 8.—Rev. Frederick Marsh, for over half a century pastor of the Congregational Church at Winchester Centre, died to-day.

Frightful Railroad Accident.

LONDON, Feb 8.—A collision, attended with a sad loss of life, occurred early this morning on the North British Railroad near Dunbar, about twenty-five miles from Edinburg. Nine persons were instantly killed and several severely wounded.

The American Club of Liverpool, entertained Lucius Fairchild, the new United States Consul for this port at a banquet last evening.

The Daily Oregonian.

MONDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 10 1873

An Extensive Project

A project has been suggested among some of the most prominent farmers up the valley which, if carried out would be more likely than any yet devised to afford some relief from the pressure which the high tariffs on freight bring, upon the industries of the country This project is for the farmers to organize a company in which themselves shall be the stockholders, for the purpose of building vessels to carry their produce to market To make this plan successful, it is proposed to establish the headquarters of the company at some point—say Astoria or Portland—to which ships can come, and place in charge of the routine business of the company a competent and efficient man experienced in such affairs, and put down rates of outward freight to the lowest figure that will meet the actual expense of transportation, insurance and repair of vessels, and interest on the money invested In other words, the company is to be operated on the mutual principle, and the profits to consist wholly in the reduction of the freight charges In the foreign ports to which these vessels might be sent they would, of course, be up for charter for their return voyage Thus the effect of the scheme would be to establish direct shipments to the Columbia from foreign ports, and, to a considerable extent at least, to discontinue our paying tribute money to San Francisco It is urged that this plan might give Oregon a considerable portion of the profits of the carrying of goods for other portions of the Pacific coast The number of vessels requisite to move the surplus products of the valley, or any considerable proportion thereof, would be greatly in excess of the tonnage demanded for our importations These vessels, being compelled to return hither, and not having full cargoes for Oregon, would be ready for charter for any other port on this coast, for they would by this means avoid the necessity and loss of a long voyage in ballast, by substituting therefor a short one. Thus Oregon would receive the double advantage of cheaper freights for her produce, and direct shipments of her imports, both of which are indispensable to the highest prosperity of the State But to make this plan of operations successful, a large capital will be necessary. No one who has not studied the subject can form an idea of the tonnage necessary to carry away the surplus grain of the Willamet Valley. Twelve hundred tons, the cargo of an ordinary bark, are 40,000 bushels The surplus of the wheat crop of 1872 was equal to between seventy and eighty such cargoes. Whether it is practicable to effect a combination among the farmers, sufficiently powerful to put upon the seas this amount of tonnage, or any approximation to it, may be questionable. It requires but the simplest calculation, however, to show that the carriers' net profits on two such crops as that of last year would furnish a sum sufficient to build the necessary ships.

The U. S. District Judge's Salary.

And now comes the Oregon Herald and denies that the people of Oregon would approve of the proposed increase by Congress of the salary of the United States District Judge to $4,500. And, not content with a bare denial, proceeds to prove its negative in the most logical manner imeginable Its logic runs thus Formerly the Circuit Judges of the State of Oregon received a salary of $3,000 recently that salary was increased by the Legislature to $3,000, Ergo, the people of Oregon are opposed to the increase by the United States of the salary of its Judge.—Q E D.

It must be confessed the relation between premise and conclusion in this argument is not very apparent. But we will not presume to question that a proper relation does exist for the Herald sets out with a declaration that it would prove its proposition, and to deny that it has done so would be equivalent to saying that journal is a—"Democrat, and is brought with British gold" and so forth, which offensive thing we would not for a moment think of saying. Like the illustrious Samuel Johnson, the Herald promised to give the public a reason, not an understanding, and it would be sheer impertinence to question the correctness of its conclusions simply because their connection with premises is invisible to the naked eye of the average intellect.

The Herald is, however, much more lucid in stating its own reason for opposing this increase than in proving that the people of the State oppose it Its own ground of opposition is plainly stated, and is that the office, "while it is not a sinecure is very nearly so." This would be a good and sufficient reason, if true, but unfortunately for the Herald's position the proposition of fact is glaringly incorrect. The District Judge of this district, performs the duties of both District and Circuit Judge of the United States, disposing of a very large amount of civil and criminal business under each of these jurisdictions and giving the most careful attention to every case. There is no other judicial position, on the Pacific coast, we apprehend, in which so much labor is exacted of the judge in proportion to his compensation

The Canada Pacific Railroad is a mighty institution—on paper Its residence is Limbo, and thence it sends forth ruddy prospectus and tempting exhibit of possible wealth in store for credulous North Americans who have tired of the distended purse. Nobody will be thunderstruck, therefore, on learning that "arrangements are completed for the construction of the Canada Pacific Railroad,' and that "a formal charter will be issued on the return of the Governor-General" of the ponderous principality of Canada to Ottawa "Forty millions of the stock is ready to be subscribed for"—and has been ready some time, doubtless "Stock books are filling up rapidly, and there is every prospect that the work will soon be far under way' 'Blessed doctrine," said an old toper, who stumbled, for the first time, into a Universalist prayer meeting "Blessed doctrine' I'd give five dollars if it was true!'

Eminent Mexicans in civil and military life continue to present addresses to President Tejada, thanking him for the peace, security and prosperity which reigns throughout the country. For the first time in fifty years there are no serious revolutionary complications throughout the country And yet in the dispatch which brings this intelligence we read that a large force of National Guards has been ordered to the State of Oaxaca to put down threatened rebellion where a party of revolutionists had captured a large province and imprisoned the authorities. We suppose the imprisoned functionaries lent their autographs to this characteristic bombast.

M F Maury

Commodore Matthew Fontaine Maury died in Lexington, Va, Saturday, February 1st, aged sixty seven years This eminent hydrographer was born in Spottsylvania, Virginia, January 14th, 1806 His tastes and inclinations led him to enter the navy as a midshipman in 1825 He visited France in the Brandywine, when that vessel conveyed La Fayette to his native land after the patriot's visit to the United States While cruising in the Pacific ocean whither he had come in the Brandywine he communcated his "Treatise on Navigation which was continued through his voyage around the globe in the Dolphin to which vessel he was transferred Returning to the Pacific coast, he served as master of the Falmouth until transferred to the Potomac as Acting Lieutenant In 1836 he was promoted to a lieutenancy, and in the summer of that year was nominated astronomer to an expedition organized to explore the Southern Seas On the retirement of Commodore Jones from the expedition Lieutenant Maury resigned his position In 1842 he commenced his labors on "The Physical Geography of the Sea' —a work which stands deservedly high among treatises on that subject His untiring energy and devotion to science built up the National Observatory and Hydrography office at Washington, of which he was for several years the superintendent In 1856 his admirable treatise on "The Physical Geography of the Sea, the product of many years' patient labor and continuous study was given to the world. In this volume is found the first reference to the theory, originating with Maury, of the crossing of trade winds at the equator. Among the practical benefits accruing from this publication are the shortening of trips from the Atlantic side to the Pacific side of the United States, the discovery of the telegraphic ocean plateau, and the indications of good whaling grounds Maury was the projector of the Maritime Congress which met at Brussels in 1853 In 1855, he was promoted to the rank of Commodore, which position he held at the outbreak of the great Rebellion, when he took service in the Confederate cause as Commodore. The noble zeal of this toiler was not without its just reward. From the hand of the King of Prussia, Commodore Maury received a gold medal commemorative of the publication of Humboldt's "Cosmos," and the Emperor of Austria sent him the large gold Medal of the Arts and Sciences He has gone from the world—"Bearing his blushing honors thick upon him," and his name will not soon go down into silence. The world has lost a worker, and science one of her grandest exponents.

A dispatch from Paris announces that the French Assembly, by a vote of 550 against 42, has passed a resolution condemning the action of revolutionists in hoisting the red flag in the city of Lyons The matter has been referred to the Ministers of the Interior, Finance and Justice, who will consider the subject and prescribe what punishment shall be inflicted on the offending parties. This little incident, trivial as it may seem, has in it the germ of a prophecy. For nowhere throughout France, has Red Republicanism ever ceased to be what "sea green Robespierre" and shrill-voiced citizen Marat made it. a remedy for all political evils,—a kind of prescription that is to be thrust down the gullets of a hungry people clamoring for grains. We say this is the germ of a prophecy, because it may not be sufficient to declare Red Republicanism an offense the penalty may not be inflicted. In which event, Insurrection is still a virtue. But how must Rochefort groan in prospect of the speedy deliverance to a land that has forgotten that glorious Feast of Pikes The people that stormed the Bastile are not the people that decree shame to the red flag, and in this new France La Lanterne would languish for support.

A New York dispatch of February 1st, in describing the proceedings in the court at the settling of the bill of exceptions in the case of Stokes, convicted of the murder of James Fisk, states that at the close of Mr. Tremaines argument, the District Attorney followed in a brief address to the court, asking, in substance, that all exceptions taken to his Honor's charge be stricken out, and also all arguments that the prisoner or his Honor left the court during the progress of the trial.

All the counsel then ascended to the judicial seat, where it was arranged that the exceptions not deemed tenable by the court should be stricken out The work of expunging began at 11 A. M., and at noon the counsel had compared notes as far as the Judge's charge to the jury This was scratched by his Honor mercilessly, so as hardly to leave a ray of hope for the condemned man. It is possible that Judge Boardman will sign the bill, in which case the prisoner's counsel will move for a stay of the execution, in order to argue the exceptions before the appellate tribunal. Judging from what his Honor has left of the bill of exceptions, there is little ground for a delay of the execution or for a new trial.

And now the Credit Mobilier, its long course of infamy well nigh ended, applies to the Pennsylvania Court of Common Pleas for a dissolution of the corporation. At a recent term of this Court, Judge Allison of Philadelphia refused the petition, ruling that as the National legislature was now inquiring into the claims of the Government against the corporation, the Court should do nothing to prejudice the rights of creditors of the Company. The application was made on the ground that the Company had done no business since 1868 And yet after all manner of villainy had been accomplished under the rule of this enormous associated leech, it is but a shadow,—a phantom of unreal realities We wish that Congress could or would adopt the sentiment of "what's in a name?' and hold Credit Mobilier to be synonymous with Union Pacific

Recent Washington dispatches say that Senator Sumner will not be able to resume his seat in the Senate before the 4th of March A gentleman just from Massachusetts says that the feeling in that commonwealth is all turning in Sumner's favor again, and if his term was out he would to day be returned to his seat. The stately Senator is a pet of the old Bay State, and she will never cease her gentle caresses It is also currently reported that Mr. Sumner feels the quick rebuke of her Legislature so keenly that he will never recover from what he deems her unmerited censure. His most intimate friends, however, are confident that he will soon recover his health and enter Congress in all the splendid vigor of his earlier years

An influential journal in the City of Mexico names General Porfirio Diaz for the mission to Spain and Germany. Good. Anything to keep Diaz out of mischief "For Satan finds some evil still,' etc

The New Northwest is disturbed by an article published in the Bulletin as coming from the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle, wherein it is denied that Susan B Anthony has ever been imprisoned for illegal voting The alleged offense was committed in Rochester, N Y, and although the paper above named ought to be authority, yet we find in the proceedings of the Woman Suffrage Convention lately held in Washington, the following as published in the Washington Chronicle of Jan. 17th

They are not hanging any more at the doors of State Legislatures, but now are doing and will do, what their enemies have long age told them to do and that was to "take their rights," and now when they do it by voting they are arrested and hustled into prison Why, she was here now only by the courtesy of the United States Marshal who had her in jail in Rochester, New York, for illegal voting and was under solemn promise to be again under his charge on Tuesday morning next

Of the next day's proceedings the Chronicle of the 18th says

While Mrs Stanton was speaking, and near about concluding a voice from a side door called Mrs Lockwood, and the history of the call had a sequel, as follows

THE AUTHORITIES WANT A LICENSE

At the height of the performance, if it may be so called, officer Roderick walked up to the ticket office and demanded to see their license, after having seen them receive money for admission tickets Mr H V Colton, the agent, said that Mrs Lockwood was the financial agent, and was acting by authority of Miss Anthony, the President Mrs Lockwood said, "No, sir, we wish no license We will do what we please"

Officer Roderick politely informed the ladies in the audience, through Mrs. Belva Lockwood, that a riot was approaching

Miss Anthony then said "It is whispered in my ear that the authorities are after us again, and (derisively) the United States authorities, too But if they are about us they will be well received Well, I guess we'd better adjourn this convention," amid cries of "Give us Dr Walker," "Pshaw, you ain't going to give it up that way, are you?"

Miss Anthony "Yes, I understand that the United States officers are after us again. They say we pay no license." Then, after putting the question as to whether or not women should pay licenses or taxes, it was decided by the audience in the negative

Miss Anthony (excitedly) "Let them arrest us," (in which Mrs. Lockwood joined,) "Let them take us," "I declare this meeting adjourned"

It is understood that warrants will be served on Miss Anthony and her associates early this morning for violation of the license law.

Nature seldom lies Who can read the description of the personal appearance and "style" of Oakes Ames, without recognizing in him the man who, after detailing the particulars of the manner in which members of Congress were tampered with in the interest of the Credit Mobilier and Union Pacific swindles, could add with the most naive frankness, that "the entire transaction was perfectly honorable" We take this statement of what the great "operator" is like, from an exchange.

Ames is large in stature, with a head something like a gourd, the principal feature of attraction being the evident disposition of his nose and chin to meet and shake hands. A cold, selfish, grayish, blue eye contributes to make up the countenance, which, backed up by a little mind, form the entire of the man. The only disposition he has evinced toward the affairs of the House, aside from the Pacific Railroad, has been an unsuccessful attempt, usurping the office of doorkeeper, to keep the page boys steadily at work and prevent the pranks of these youngsters. I was once a witness of a "conflict of jurisdiction" between the venerable Ames and a page As the House had adjourned the boys commenced a little play on their own hook, but Ames, who has a great aversion to anything but business, undertook to reprove them "Boys," said he, "don't you know that you are in the presence of members of the House of Representatives, and such conduct is entirely unbecoming?" The impressiveness of this sermon was complete ly lost, however, for one of the boys replied in an undertone "He thinks himself smart because he is down here raising the price of shovels."

War Correspondents

From the Yreka Journal of the 5th, we learn that quite a swarm of War correspondents are flocking to the lava beds. That paper says:

Edward Fox, reporter for the New York Herald, the most enterprising paper in the world under young Bennett's management, arrived from the East on Monday, and left yesterday for the seat of war. We understand that he intends interviewing Capt. Jack by engaging a squaw as messenger, with an interpreter to conduct the conversation. The Herald, we also learn, pays full commercial or private message rates for dispatches, not being connected with any press association.

H W. Atwill, well known as "Bill Dadd, the Scribe," arrived on Monday also, as a special correspondent for that enterprising and prosperous journal, the Sacramento Record. He left yesterday for the front. He also intends delivering a lecture when he returns, and will remain some time to write up this country and its advantages, prospects, etc., for the Record

A New York Tribune correspondent is on the way here, and expected to day.

Freight from Lebanon.

LEBANON, Feb. 7, 1873

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

SIR Allow us to say in your local columns that the greatest want of this section of Linn county in the vicinity of Lebanon is the want of means to carry freight from this point to Portland. The Santiam river is navigable for small steamers within three miles of Lebanon, and at which point suitable warehouses would be built to receive freight for shipment. Elkins Bros. will supply from 30 to 50 tons of flour weekly, and the town as much more. The people will assist in the voyage first made, and we hope that the enterprise will be commenced at once. All communications should be addressed to ELKINS BROS.

The probable defeat of the Webb Australian subsidy scheme is thus explained by a late telegram from Washington

Webb's Australian subsidy bill has struck a ruinous rock Rumors were circulating recently that the scheme had fallen into the hands of the Central Pacific Railroad ring, but they were not believed until yesterday, when Stanford's Senator, Stewart, made himself conspicuously active on the inside for the subsidy, and Gorham, Carr and the remainder of the Central Pacific lobby were as busy as bees on the outside skirmishing for votes, and then there was no mistaking these evidences of combination, which probably kills the Australian subsidy, notwithstanding the story goes that the lobby have a $300,000 corruption fund

A panic stricken Irishman made haste to pull his deposit out of a "busted" bank, and with equal haste he ran across the street to place it in a sound institution. As he passed his pile of bills over to the treasurer, an agent from the bank across the way, as the story goes, dropped in with a cash check, and the astonished depositor saw his own money counted in to pay it "By the Holy Moses!" he exclaimed in astonishment, "I might just as well have left me money there meself"

The State Line Steamship Company of Glasgow will send out the first of their new ocean steamers about March 1st. The new line will run between New York and Glasgow Three first class steamships—the Pennsylvania, the Virginia and the Georgia—are to be dispatched in quick succession.

An extensive fire in New Orleans on the night of January 30th destroyed the Crescent City Refinery—one of the largest refineries in the Union—a cotton seed oil factory and other valuable property The total loss was about $450,000, on which there was but $200,000 insurance.

The Herald of yesterday calls attention to its "full synopsis of the able discourse delivered last Sunday in San Francisco, by Rev. Dr Stone, of the Unitarian church" The Herald has evidently discovered a new divine in the Bay city.

An Impressive Religious Ceremony

OREGON CITY, Feb. 9, 1873

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

The beautiful and primitive ceremony of baptism by immersion was performed this morning in this city, the Rev. J. A. Wirth, pastor of the Baptist Church, officiating The usual Sabbath morning service was held in the Church, the pastor preaching a most interesting and impressive sermon on the subject of Baptism from St John, 3d ch 5th v "Except a Man be Born of Water and of the Spirit," &c, after which the congregation, pastor and candidate, Mrs Cross, wended their way down the banks of the Wallamet river till they reached a sandy bay, which afforded very convenient facilities for the ceremony At least 200 persons were assembled on the banks of the river to view the scene It was a beautiful day, the sun was shining brightly and Nature seemed hushed in calm repose, as the pastor, candidate and members of the Church, standing at the margin of the beautiful river, engaged in the usual preliminary devotional exercises of reading of the Scriptures, singing and prayer, previous to the performance of the solemn rite of baptism by immersion While the last hymn was being sung, the pastor and candidate, with steady, unfaltering step, advanced some 30 or 40 yards into the cold stream, when having reached the required depth, the impressive ceremony was performed

CITY.

FINE WORKMANSHIP.—At the Orb Fine Saloon can be seen an elegant a piece of cabinet workmanship as could certainly be produced in this city, in the form of a box. The chief architect and builder of this box is Mr Charles Dexter, the well known bar tender at that place. This box is two feet long, 14 inches wide, and 10½ inches deep. It is made of Alaskan cedar, California laurel and Spanish cedar. The inside of the box is made of the Alaskan cedar and the outside of the laurel. A small and very handsomely built box of Spanish cedar is made to fit inside the larger box, and occupies one end. The large box is lined with the cedar peculiar to Alaska. That wood possesses a strong and not unpleasant odor which it never loses by exposure to the air, and which is an infallible exterminator of moths, so destructive to valuable furs. Any article liable to be infested by these insects if placed in juxtaposition to this wood, will be exempt from its ravages. The outside of the box is covered with California laurel, and beautifully adorned with panels and carvings. The laurel possesses a very flinty and hard grain. It is almost as fine as mahogany, and susceptible of receiving the highest degree of polish. The surface of the wood has been so polished and glazed one would be led to believe that it had received several coats of the finest quality of varnish, when in reality nothing of the kind has been used. In fact, it would puzzle any skillful painter to imitate a piece of grain as beautifully as the natural grain appears. In several places the grain of the laurel is contorted so as to closely resemble the head and features of Ben. Franklin, the venerated journalist and philosopher. Mr. Dexter has never served an apprenticeship at either the carpenter or cabinet trades, yet he has executed a piece of wood work of which any one, however skilled, might feel proud, with but few tools besides a square and common jack knife.

CAPTAIN JACK CAPTURED.—Do not start, gentle reader, with the vain hope that Captain Jack, of Modoc lineage, is captured; that that warlike chieftain, whose crafty soul delights in gory scalps, and who revels with savage pleasure in scenes of massacre and bloodshed—a submissive prisoner in the hands of the "Boston tillicums." Not much. The proud soul of that unconquerable red man would yield itself back into the hands of the Great Spirit before it would suffer capture at the hands of the hated pale face, especially if such a face was the head and front of a Metropolitan Police uniform. Last Friday night the police found Capt. Jack—not the veritable Chief who has cultivated such a strong passion for hair, but a counterfeit specimen who only resembled the redoutable Sachem in name. Weekly diluted benzine absorbed by the manly form of Jack No. 2 had developed the latent vengeance of his soul, so that he began to manifest some of the well known characteristics of Jack No. 1. In the absence of those twin ornaments of savagery, yclept a tomahawk and scalping knife, No. 2 started on the war path with nothing more formidable than nature's weapons, two brawny arms. He was making some lively demonstrations in the manly art of self defence when encountered by the police. In no angelic frame of mind Captain Jack, for so he gave his name, was removed to the city jail. By actual experiment it was discovered that Jack was drawing something less than forty fingers of gin on a stool, so he was quietly deposited on the soft side of a blanketless bunk, and left to feast his imagination on alcoholic reminiscences of his former glory. The following morning, the court, although entertaining a profound respect for valor when shown in a good cause, and on a proper occasion, decided that Jack No. 2 had displayed an ill-timed zeal in matters belligerent, and accordingly sentenced the spurious Sachem to labor 20 days in the chain-gang.

AMERICAN BARK PENANG.—This bark, Capt. Patten, which arrived at port from Astoria on Friday night in tow of the tug Varuna, is now lying at Standers' wharf. The present is the first voyage which the Penang has yet made to this port. She brings an assorted cargo of 525 tons of Chinese merchandize consigned to Messrs. Allen & Lewis. This bark was built in Bath, Maine, in the fall of 1867, is 144 feet in length over all, 30 feet in beam, and has 19 feet depth of hold. Her registered capacity is 583 tons, while she can carry 845 tons. She left Boston one year ago for Newcastle, New South Wales; thence went to China with a load of coals, and sailed on the 5th of November from Hongkong for Portland. Strong monsoons were encountered for the space of thirty days from the date of sailing, in the China seas. On the 1st inst., the Columbia river bar hove in sight, and was crossed in safety the following day. The Penang had been principally engaged in the China trade since she was built. Her present cargo will be discharged in a few days. Not being under charter to any firm, it is not known yet what the outgoing cargo will consist of. It will most probably be wheat for the United Kingdom.

NARROW ESCAPE.—Yesterday afternoon as the train on the eastside road came down through East Portland, a Chinaman narrowly escaped being run over. John started to cross the track where it intersected J street, and was either not aware of the proximity of the locomotive, or else thought he could pass in time. He came leisurely along the sidewalk towards the river. When he passed the small house which stands parallel with the track, and glanced up the road he saw the iron monster about twenty feet distant, and bearing down on him with frightful celerity. At the same instant several persons standing near shouted to the Mongolian to apprise him of his great danger. But self preservation was one of the leading instincts in the Asiatic's mind. To attempt to cross the track would provoke instant death, a fact which John perceived instantly. The sudden "fetch up" which the Chinaman made, and the double back vault he performed was a caution. He saved his bacon by a bare scratch; three seconds later and there would have been one John less.

RULES CHANGED.—We learn that at a meeting of the Directors of the Washington County Agricultural Society, held last week, it was determined that at the next fair the Society would observe the following rules:

Trotting.—Best three in five, free for all. Purse of $100 for first, $50 for second; time not over 2:45, or the Society will withhold the premium.

Running.—Best 3 in 5 free for all horses, $300 for first, $100 for second.

Single dash, Oregon bred horses, purse $150 for the first and $75 for the second.

Best 3 in 5, free for all, $200 for first and $100 for second.

Half mile and repeat, for 2 year olds, $100 for first, $50 for second.

Several premiums were added to the list to be given for stock, fowls and hogs, among which were Holstein cattle and Leicester sheep.

A rule was also adopted requiring the weight and age of fleeces on sheep exhibited to be shown.

INAUGURATION BALL.—The members of Baker Post, G. A. R., are making extensive arrangements to hold a grand concert ball on the evening of the 4th of March. The principal object of the ball is to raise a sufficient fund to defray the expenses necessary to be incurred on Decoration Day, celebrated by the Order on the 30th of May. It is probable that the ball will be given either at the Skating Rink or new Masonic Hall. No pains or expense will be spared to have the event prove a grand social success. The 21st Infantry band at Vancouver has been engaged, and will furnish the music. A portion of the evening will be devoted to the concert, which will consist of vocal and instrumental music. Several leading amateur vocalists of the city have generously tendered their services for the evening.

PRIVATE SOCIABLE.—On Thursday evening, 13th inst., the officers and members of the Emmet Guard propose to give a private sociable at their Armory Hall. The affair is intended to be select. No tickets will be issued, but invitations extended to those whose company is solicited. It is the custom with the officers of that organization to give an annual ball, select in character, and to defray all the expenses incurred. The forthcoming occasion gives promise of being all that could be desired.

FORMAL DEDICATION.—Arrangements have been perfected by the Directors of the Public Schools of the city to have the new Central School House formally dedicated this evening. Preparations with that object in view have been in progress for several days past. The exercises will take place in the large assembly room in the center of the building, and will consist of an address, singing, instrumental music, and other interesting ceremonies.

TO MEET AGAIN.—The County Commissioners were not able to conclude the business which is required to be transacted at the present term, last week. The Court adjourned on Saturday after noon to convene again this morning at 10 o'clock.

CONDEMNED.—The large "king stock" brought last week from the Cowlitz to be used in the new steamer of the O. S. N. Co., has been condemned. Yesterday, Mr. Holland, chief boat builder for the Company, inspected the piece of timber, and found that a portion of the heart for some distance was partially decayed, and also what is known as "wind shaken." As none but the soundest kind of timber would serve for a bow post, the whole stock was condemned as worthless.

FOR REPAIRS.—This morning the Ben Holladay will go down the river. She will proceed as far as Rainier, at which point the tug will be beached for some needed repairs. During the time the steamer was engaged in collecting logs down the river she ran afoul of a raft, which mashed up the bow post, and did some other slight damage. In a few days all repairs will be completed, and the tug will be in readiness for active service again.

SAILED AWAY.—The brig Pathfinder completed her cargo of lumber at the lower sawmill of the city on Saturday last and sailed down the river yesterday morning. She is destined for some port on the southern coast of California. On her return to Portland, the brig will load with wheat and flour for Batavia. At present, the Pathfinder is under command of Capt. Read, her former first mate.

PUSHED FORWARD.—Work on the steamer Governor Grover is being pushed rapidly to completion. So anxious is the contractor to have the work finished within the time required, that the whole force of carpenters employed were busily engaged all day yesterday. Things put on a decided lively aspect yesterday in the vicinity of the Gas Company's wharf, alongside which the new craft is moored.

DELEGATES.—Thirteen delegates were chosen to attend the Temperance Alliance, which will convene at Salem on the 20th inst., at a late meeting of Multnomah Lodge, I. O. G. T. We are informed that the different church denominations of this city will also choose delegates to attend the Alliance. The delegation from this city promises to be very large—probably exceeding fifty representatives.

BRIDGE COMPLETED.—A gentleman just from the Dalles informs us that the new railroad bridge which is being constructed across Mill Creek, near that town, by the O. S. N. Co., is nearly finished. The new bridge is constructed in such a manner that it floats, and can easily adjust itself to the stage of water.

NAVIGATION RESUMED.—If the winter still continues open, it is probable that navigation on the Upper Columbia will be resumed by the first of March. We are informed that the Company are making arrangements to start boats whenever the condition of the river and the demands of freight will warrant.

NEW FOUNDRY.—It is reported that certain parties in this city contemplate the establishment of a small foundry at the old and almost totally defunct town of Brooklyn, situated some distance above Portland on the eastern bank of the river. Work, it is said, will probably commence in the spring.

MEET TO ORGANIZE.—According to the regulations of the Fire Department, the newly elected, and re-elected members of the Board of Delegates, will meet on Thursday evening next, and organize by the election of officers. The officers to be elected will be a President and Secretary.

DRAWN ALONGSIDE.—The American ship Roswell Sprague was drawn alongside the bark Sarah Scott on Saturday last, where she will receive a portion of her cargo of wheat. Her place at the wharf, where the bulk was discharged, is occupied by the bark Penang.

BEYOND THE BAR.—The Astoria boat reports a bark off the bar early on Saturday morning, and also a large four-and-aft rigged schooner. Probably the bark is the Melancthon, and the schooner is the Oregonian, both vessels being due at this port from San Francisco.

IRON NEARLY DISCHARGED.—The ship Victoria Cross is at Astoria discharging railroad iron. Her cargo is well nigh completed, and the vessel can be expected to arrive here by Wednesday next. She is under charter to carry hence a load of wheat to England.

CIRCUIT COURT.—This morning the regular term of the Circuit Court will convene at the Court House, Judge Upton Presiding. Jurors should be promptly on hand at the convening of the Court, to respond to their names. There will be a full docket to clear.

TIME CHANGED.—Rev. G. W. Izer of Portland, will lecture at Hillsboro on Saturday evening next, and preach on Sunday at 11 o'clock A. M., and also lecture on Monday evening instead of Tuesday as announced.

REAL ESTATE SOLD.—A. B. Richardson disposed of a number of lots, situated in the town of Hillsboro, on last Saturday, at the Court House. We are informed that the property brought a good price.

PASSED TO SEA.—The bark Free Trade, which loaded with stave bolts at Kalama, passed out to sea on Thursday last. This bark is bound for San Francisco.

MET AND ADJOURNED.—The U. S. Circuit Court met last Saturday, pursuant to adjournment, and adjourned to meet this morning at 10 o'clock.

ADMITTED.—Mr Hugh Small, a native of Ireland, was admitted to citizenship in the United States Circuit Court on Saturday morning.

Window shades, cornices, curtains, picture nails, etc., also all kinds of upholstery work done at Paul Richter's.

A SUGGESTION.

PORTLAND, Feb. 9, 1873.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Knowing that you and your paper take a lively interest in anything pertaining to schools, therefore I ask space in your columns to make a suggestion on the subject. Much of late has been said and written in regard to the public schools, and particularly a "reform school." Now, Mr. Editor, in all of this discussion one of the most important subjects has been ignored, to wit: a night school. Allow me to say, while there is quite a number of boys in this city who ought to be forced into a "reform school," there is also quite a large number of good, steady boys—or young men—ranging from the ages of fourteen to twenty, who are engaged in the day time in learning trades, and have a number of leisure hours in the evening which they would willingly devote to attending a school, but are pecuniarily unable to do so. Now, why should not you and other friends of the cause of education agitate the establishment of a night school, and thereby to a great extent obviate the necessity of establishing a reform school? APPRENTICE.

A Dangerous Atmosphere.

The great atmospheric wave which, the meteorologists tell us, sweeps over the whole United States from the Pacific coast, at this season, is loaded with unwholesome vapors that chill the body and disturb all its functions. Perspiration is checked, the stomach is deranged, the bowels and the liver sympathize with that organ, the nerves and muscles are affected, pulmonary complaints are engendered, and the spirits are more or less depressed. These are among the common effects produced by the moist, unequal winds prevalent in the autumn months. But if the system is toned and fortified in advance with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, no danger need be apprehended from any condition of the atmosphere. The "ill wind that blows nobody any good" will not be likely to blow any harm to him who strengthens and regulates his internal organs with this wholesome vegetable tonic and alterative, and clothes his outside in a manner suitable to the season. The seeds of fever and ague and other diseases of an intermittent or remittent type are now in the air, and are liable to be planted in the system to germinate and bring forth bitter fruit, either immediately or at a later period, unless due sanitary precautions are taken to ward them off. Of all safeguards against malaria, this famous vegetable antidote is the best; and of all remedies for the painful ailments caused by damp, cold and sudden changes of temperature, such as rheumatism, chills, irregularities of the bowels, bilious attacks and indigestion, it is the most reliable and the most agreeable.

Dickey's Creme de Lis.—For cleansing and preserving the Teeth, Beautifying the Complexion, and removing Freckles, Eruptions, Sunburn and Tan. A new combination, equal to the best French preparations, and free from their poisonous ingredients. Invented by Geo S. Dickey, Chemist. 1 dw

George Clement's Wife.

"Of all the things, this is the worst! If I ever in all my life expected to hear such news! Why, our George has gone and got married! D'ye hear?'

Good Mrs. Clements pushed her steel-bowed spectacles off her bright eyes, and dropped her letter in her lap, as she turned round to her husband, the stout, clever old farmer, who was contentedly strolling the old white cat

'Deacon, d'ye hear?"

This time when she asked the question, there was a touch of sharpness in her voice

"Yes, what if he is married? I'm sure it's natural enough. It kind o' runs in the family, 'pears to me"

But Mrs Clements would take no notice of the little pleasantry,

"Well, if you like it, I can tell you I don't He needn't think he's coming here, with his fine city-bred lady, all airs and grades, and flounces and fluted ruffles There's plenty of good girls hereabouts that wanted him Right in the middle of work, too! to talk of bringing a lady here in hog-killin' time' I do declare, I think George is a fool! '

* * * * * * *

A graceful, dainty little lady, in a garnet poplin and ruffled apron, with a small, proudly poised head, covered with short, dusky curls, and a pair of dark blue eyes, so wistful and tender, a tiny rose bud of a mouth, and a dimple in one pink cheek

That was Mrs Marion Clements Was it any wonder that George has fallen in love with her'

She sat in the bright little parlor, close beside the lace curtained window, watching for the loved husband's return, and then, when she heard the click of the latch-key in the hall, flew for the welcome kiss

"Hav'n't you the letter this time George' I've felt sure of it all day. Indeed, I've quite decided what dresses to take with me."

He smiled and shook his head.

A cloud passed over her pretty face.

"O George, isn't it too bad? And I do believe oh, I do believe, they won't write because they are sorry you married me."

He put his arm around her neck.

"And supposing such be the case, do you think it would make any difference to me?"

"Oh, no! no! only it would grieve me so if I knew I had oblented your own parents from you."

"And a one-sided obonation it would be, too! They have never seen you! And when they know you they can't help loving you "

"O George"

And the exclamation was caused by the kiss accompanying his loving flattery.

"That's true as preaching. By and by, my dear, what would you say if the firm sent me off on a traveling tour of six weeks?"

A little dismayed cry answered him.

"You won't stay here alone, eh? But, Marion, it would be five hundred dollars clear gain to us."

"What need we care for money? I'd rather have you."

A mischievous smile played on the young man's lips; he was more matter-of-fact than this romantic, tender little wife of his.

"I think the addition to our balance at the banker's would be very consoling for the absence. But never mind, little pet. Let's go down to dinner. I hope we'll get a letter from home soon!"

And soon it was; for Marion snatched it from his coat pocket the very next night. But her husband's face looked very grave and stern, and his eyes looked angry when she looked gleefully over the envelope.

"My dear, you must remember I care very little for what the letter contains. Remember I did not write it; that you are dearer to me than ever before. Kiss me, first, while I watch you."

A little pang of misdoubt troubled her when she glanced over the note; then tears stole from under her lashes, and George saw her tender mouth quiver and tremble; then when she had finished it, she laid her head down on his shoulder and cried.

"It was cruel to let you see it my wounded birdie. Let me burn it. And don't forget, darling, what our Bible says 'that a man shall leave father and mother, and cleave to his wife.' You are my precious wife, Marion, and to you I turn for all the happiness my life will ever hold."

He dried her tears and then they talked it over.

"Just because I am city-bred, she thinks I am lazy, and haughty, and dainty, and"—

"Never mind, Marion. She will find out some day. My father"—

"Yes, bless the dear old man! He has added 'My love to my daughter Marion.' Oh, I know I should love him, and your mother, too, if she would let me."

"We will invite them down, when I come home. By the way, Marion I will stop at the farm on my way home and invite them down, and bring them home with me."

"George, dear, I have been thinking about that trip West. I think you had better go and leave me at home. It won't be so very long."

Marion was eating her egg while she spoke across the cozy little tete-a-tete breakfast table.

"Spoken like my true little Marion, and when I come back I'll bring you a present. What shall it be?"

"Your mother and father from the farm. It shall be that hope that will bear me company when you are gone."

A fortnight after that Marion Clements ate her breakfast alone, the traces of a tear or so on her pink cheek; then she dashed them away with a merry, joyous little laugh.

"This will never do, and now that George has gone for six weeks, to prepare for his return. And I pray heaven it shall be such a coming as shall delight his very soul."

* * * * * * *

"I'm sure I don't know what to say. The land knows I need help bad enough, but it 'pears to me such a slender little midget as you couldn't earn your salt. What did you say your name was?"

"Mary Smith. And indeed if you will try me for a week, I am sure you will keep me till the season's over."

Mrs. Clements looked out of the window at the great clouds that were piling gloomily up, and then the wind gave a great wailing shriek around the corners of the house.

"You can cook, ken you? or shake up feather beds—good big ones, forty pounders?"

A gleeful little laugh came from Mary's lips.

"Indeed I can. I may not cook to suit you, but I can learn."

Mrs. Clements walked out to the huge open fire-place in the kitchen, where the deacon was shelling corn.

"What d'ye say, deacon, keep her or not? I kind o' like her looks, and the dear knows it 'nd be a good lift while we're killin', if she couldn't do more'n set the table, or make the mush for the bread."

"Take her of course, Hannah. You are hard driv' I know. Let her stop a week or so anyhow"

So Mrs. Clements came slowly back and sat down again.

"You can't get away to-night, anyhow, there's a snow storm been blowin' these three days, and it's on us now, sure enough See them 'ere flakes fine and thick. You may as well take your things up stairs to the west garret, and then come down and help me get supper."

Then followed directions to the west garret, and when she was gone, Mrs. Clements turned to the deacon! "I never saw a girl before I'd trust up stairs alone. But such as her don't steal, I can tell you that if nothing else."

Directly she came down in a purple print dress and white apron, her hair brushed off from her face in a net, a narrow linen collar, fastened with a sailor's loop of narrow black ribbon. It seemed as if she had life, too, so handily she flitted in and out of the big pantry and down the cellar. Then after the meal, she gathered the dishes in a neat, silent way, that was perfect bliss to Mrs. Clement's ears.

"She's determined to earn her bread, anyhow; and I like her turn too."

And the deacon had "taken a shine," to Mary Smith. One by one the days wore on; the hog killing was over and done, long strings of sausages hung in fantastic rings, arranged by Mary's deft fingers; sweet hams and shoulders were piled away in true housewifely manner, and now Mary and Mrs. Clements were sitting in the sunny dining-room, darning, patching and mending.

"I don't know what I am going to do without you, Mary. I dread to see you pack up your clothes."

A blush of pleasure overspread Mary's face

"I am so glad you have been suited with my work. Indeed I have tried,"

"It ain't the work altogether, though goodness knows, you're the smartest gal I've seen this many a day. As I say, it ain't the work, it is you, Mary, I've got to thinking a heap of you—me and the deacon "

Mary's voice trembled at the kindness of the old lady's voice, but she sewed rapidly on.

"It's so uncommon lonesome since the boy left the farm, but it's worse since he got married It seems like deserting us altogether '

"Have you a son' You never mentioned him."

"No, George has gone his way and we must go ours Yes he married one of those crack headed boarding school people, who can't tell the difference between a rolling pin and a rolling pan '

But despite her scorn, Mrs Clements dashed off the tears with her broad fist

"Is his wife pretty? I suppose you love her dearly "

"I don't know anything about her and never want to know He left us for her, and us old folks will leave him for her too Mary just turn them cakes around, see if they're burning "

When Mary had turned the cakes Mrs Clements was leaning on the arm of her chair

"Mary, supposin' you stop with us another month yet, anyhow. The deacon will make it all right."

"It isn't the money I care for, Mrs. Clements, I only wish I might stay always. You don't know how much I love you "

"Love us! do you? Bless your heart. If poor George had only picked you out, what a comfort it would be to us all! But it can't be helped now "

She sighed wearily then glanced out of the window, looked a moment and threw down her work.

"Bless my soul if there ain't our son George coming up the lane! Deacon! deacon! George is coming."

And all her mother-love rushing to her heart, she hurried out to meet him. Oh, the welcoming, the approaches, the caresses, the determination to love him still, despite poor innocent little Marion. Then when the table had been set in the next room by Mary's deft fingers, and she had returned to her "west garret," Mrs. Clements opened her heart.

"There's no use talkin', George, this fine, fancy lady o' yours 'll never suit me. Give me a smart girl like Mary Smith, and I'll ask no more. Come in to supper now. Mary, Mary."

She raised her voice to call the girl, when a low voice near surprised her.

"Oh, you dressed in honor o' my boy. Well, I must confess I never knew you had such a handsome dress, and you look like a picture with your net, off, and them short, bobbin' curls! George, this is Mary Smith, my"—

George came through the door, and glanced carelessly at the corner where the young woman stood. Then, with a cry, sprang with outstretched arms to meet the little figure that sprang into them. The deacon and Mrs. Clements stood in speechless amazement. Then Marion, all blushes and tearful smiles, went over to the old pair and took their hands.

"I am George's wife. I was no afraid you would never love me, so I came determined to win you if I could. Mother, father, may I be your daughter?"

And a happier family, when they had exhausted their power of surprise, amazement and pride in the beautiful Marion, never gave thanks over a supper table.—Woman's Journal.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Financial.

SATURDAY EVENING, Feb. 8, 1873.

Gold in New York to-day, 110¼.

Portland Legal Tender rates, 88c buying; 89c, selling.

Gold bars are quotable at 899 fine.

Wheat in Liverpool—Average, California, 12s 2d@12s 3d; Club, 12s 8d@12s 9d.

The claim of the Secretary of the Treasury that the acts of Congress on the currency question, authorizing him to increase the legal tender issues to the extent of $44,000,000 beyond the limit of $356,000,000 established by his predecessor, has taken up considerable of the time during the session now pending, is a question, the settlement of which, would materially affect the financial condition of the country, inasmuch as it would either shorten or lengthen the time when specie payment might be resumed by the Government. As is already known, the majority of the Finance Committee have reported adverse to the claim of Mr. Boutwell, and asserted that "the plain intentions of Congress in its legislation on legal tender matters since 1863, has been to gradually reach specie payments; that this policy, in consonance with such intent, was inaugurated by Secretary McCulloch, and that the creditors of the United States throughout the world had been given to understand that the Government would do nothing to depreciate its securities or impair the value of its obligations." This may be said in brief to be the theory on which the report proceeds, and the resolution which accompanied the report sets forth that the Secretary has no right to increase the currency a single dollar. The report of a minority of this Committee, however, has been submitted and negatives the majority report in almost every particular, and concludes with a resolution that the Secretary has the right to issue the additional $44,000,000. It sets forth that the acts of Congress of February 25th, 1862, July 11, 1862 and March 3d, 1863, confer unequivocally on the Secretary the power to issue and reissue United States notes to an amount not exceeding $400,000,000, subject only to the restriction that $50,000,000 be reserved for the redemption of temporary loan deposits, to be issued only when necessary for that purpose, leaving the amount as fixed by the acts of Congress referred to at $400,000,000. The minority report makes a direct issue with that of the majority as to the fact that it has been the intention of Congress to legislate in the direction of specie payments, and it is to bring that point directly before Congress that Senator Sherman's specie payment bill has been introduced by the Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, who also signed the majority report, the minority being composed of Senators Wright, of Iowa, and Ferry, of Michigan. The question is one in which financial men at the East are taking much interest, many believing that the time to resume is yet in the future, while others claim that should Mr. Sherman's bill pass it would effectually check the jobs which the gamblers of Wall street are now permitted to put up on the agents of the Treasury, and fill their own purses at the loss of the Government. Could the latter result be obtained it were certainly "a consummation devoutly to be wished."

Oregon for 1873

With the prospect for an easy money market it is now believed that the present year will be an era of prosperity and growth in Oregon as yet unsurpassed, if equaled, in her history. This belief has a very good foundation in the present circumstances, and is justified by the numerous enterprises now in contemplation, among which may be mentioned the projected construction of 240 miles of the North Pacific Railroad in the adjoining Territories, which, if carried out, will doubtless attract many people and much traffic to our ports; the placing upon the Willamet river of an opposition line of boats to bring the surplus grain produced to tide water; the erection of the woolen mills at Oregon City, the opening of the extensive agricultural implement manufactory at Salem, the establishment of new and more accommodating facilities for towing vessels across the bar at the mouth of the Columbia, and above all the prospect of an abundant harvest of all the products of the earth which it seems now will reward the toils of our agricultural population, and the re-building of the districts lately devastated by fire in our city These numerous enterprises and many others of equal importance, if of less extent, will require the disbursement of very large sums of money in our State, and bring about an active condition of affairs in commercial circles. It has been estimated that aside from our regular coasting vessels, about forty ships will enter the mouth of the Columbia during the years 1873 and the first half of 1874 Oregon can produce enough to return them all with full cargoes and prosper, within her own borders at least, a recurrence of the unusual tightness in monetary matters, which has proved such a drawback on her progress in the last year.
